DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 25 November 2005 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

In response to applicant's arguments against the references individually, one cannot show nonobviousness by attacking references individually where the rejections are based on combinations of references. See In re Keller, 642 F.2d 413, 208 USPQ 871 (CCPA 1981); In re Merck & Co., 800 F.2d 1091, 231 USPQ 375 (Fed. Cir. 1986).

Rezai teaches the use of a cellulosic foam instead of a cellulosic fibrous web to provide the improvement of a higher wicking rate. Therefore, modification of the absorbent article of Graef with the regenerated cellulosic foam material of Rezai would be obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to provide such an improvement to the article of Graef.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-6, 11-12, and 14-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Graef et al. (6,518,479) in view of Rezai et al. (5,713,881).

With respect to claims 1, 5, 14, 15, 17, and 18, Graef discloses all aspects of the claimed invention with the exception of regenerated cellulose. Graef discloses an absorbent structure, as shown in figure 3, comprising a cellulosic material which comprises two integrated layers 10 and 30, the layers being formed by placing one on top of the other before they are completely dry, as described in column 18, lines 1-33. The layers partially penetrate each other such that there is no clear partitioning between the layers, as described in column 6, lines 38-44. The layers have different pore sizes, as described in column 5, line 67 to column 6, line 3. The absorbent structure comprises cellulose, as described in column 7, line 38 to column 8, line 63.

Rezai discloses the use of regenerated rayon cellulose foam, or viscose, in an absorbent article, and further discloses compression of the cellulose, in order to provide a higher liquid wicking rate, as described in column 21, lines 18-25.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of invention to make the cellulose material of Graef compressed regenerated viscose cellulose, as taught by Rezai, to provide a higher liquid wicking rate.

With respect to claim 2, the foam material also contains superabsorbent materials, as disclosed in column 8, lines 64-66.

With respect to claim 3, each layer comprises a different amount of superabsorbent material, as disclosed in column 6, lines 15-17.

With respect to claim 4, the layer that has the smallest pore size, as disclosed in column 5, line 65 to column 6, line 1, has the highest amount of superabsorbent material, as disclosed in column 6, lines 15-17.

With respect to claim 6, the foam material of the layers comprises different polymers, as disclosed in column 18, lines 14-17.

With respect to claim 11, Graef discloses an absorbent article comprising a liquid permeable topsheet 16, a liquid impermeable backsheet 18, and an absorbent structure therebetween, as shown in figure 7.

With respect to claims 12 and 16, the absorbent article is a diaper, sanitary napkin, or incontinence guard, as disclosed in column 15, lines 9-13.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
